

SimX

Taylor Kahny - 2022-07-14 - Instructional Design & Learning Technology

SimX is a custom-built virtual reality experience that gives students practice in difference scenarios which they may encounter throughout their careers. The simulations were created through direct input from our Nursing faculty. Instructors have the ability to moderate and change the virtual reality simulations on the fly, giving students a unique experience each time they enter the virtual environment.